North Side has lived, and it still lives; it has its heart and soul in those who have come here, and it is a part of them. It has lived through the cycle of years and the changing classes. It has bound together sophomores with juniors and seniors with the faculty. It has made friends of strangers; they are all part of it.

It has stood through the changing seasons smiling at the autumn excitement of the touchdown, the shivers of the crowd, the hum of the cafeteria, and the silence of study. It has witnessed the laughter of fun, the screams of victory, and the tears of defeat. Its sturdy doors have opened out to accept the unsure, fearful sophomore; the anxious, confident junior; and the powerful, proud senior. Its cracks have been filled, and fresh paint has erased the names from its walls. Yet the heart and soul of North Side High School will never die but will become part of "the dome's eternal memories."

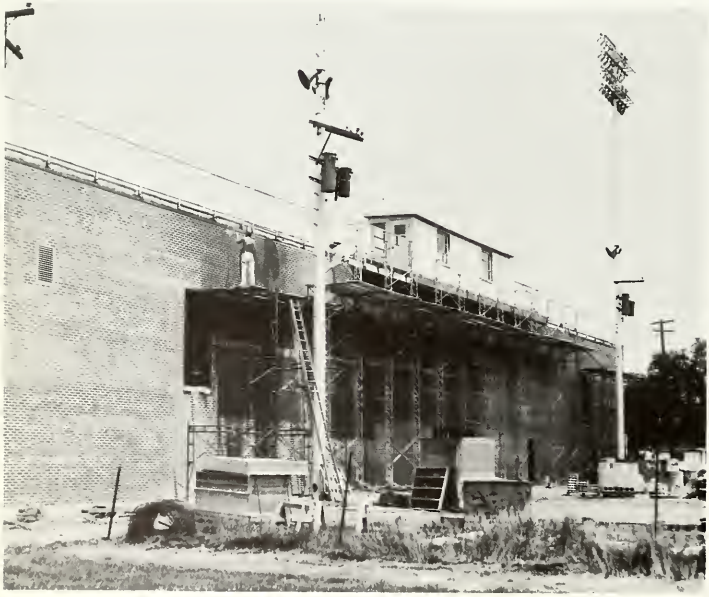
Renovation brings new stadium, heating, and rooms

The old music corridor has taken on a new look as it is replaced by the new Industrial Arts hallway.

Constructing new locker rooms, concession stands, and athletic equipment storage rooms underneath the stadium, workmen pour cement to complete the stadium for football season.

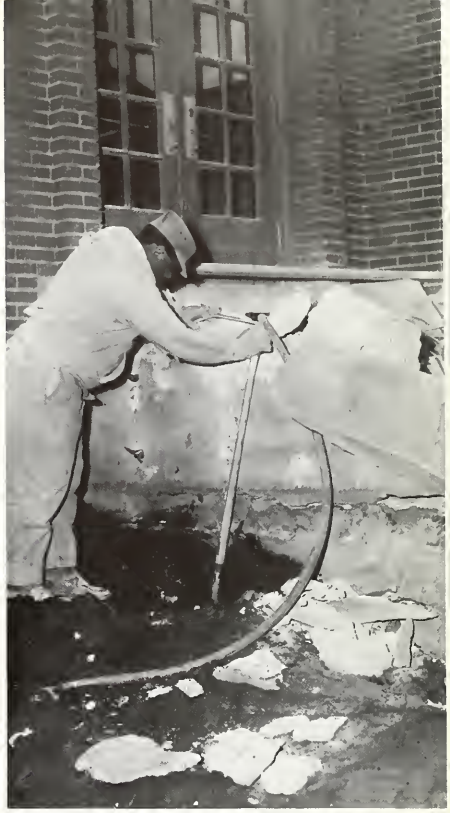


The stadium stands completed except for the taking down of the workmen's scaffold. The stadium was finished and the inner rooms were first used for North's Homecoming game.

Installing pipes for the new heating system results in redecorating the 120 corridor with the new renovation look.

Sitting in class straining to listen to a teacher's lecture on Macbeth over the roar of the bulldozers and the shouts of the workers proved to be a challenge facing all Redskins. Learning to cope with such problems seemed unreal until the rewards of renovation became apparent. Everyone had to make small sacrifices such as sitting in a room with blackened windows preventing one from dreamily staring out at the cars screeching by, no ringing bells to wake one up from a sound sleep in study hall, and not remembering where homeroom was to meet that day. A new stadium was the pride of all Redskins at football games. Being able to sit in a class without freezing resulted from a new heating system. Industrial Art rooms were modernized and storage rooms were constructed. As the first phase of renovation was completed, Redskins realized that such sacrifices were trivial.

Putting in a new suspended lighting system in an Industrial Arts room, workers hurry to make the room available for use.



Making way for the new, a worker tears out some side steps to make room for Domeland's new storage and equipment rooms.

Trying their best to cope with the difficulties resulting from renovation, a Spanish classroom decorates their blackened windows with artwork to brighten the room.

Junior class captures Spirit Trophy; Skins beat

Domeland's darkened halls brightened as Spirit Week again brought Redskin enthusiasm to a peak. "Beat Snider," "Team we're backing you," and "Redskin Country," signs revealed school spirit as well as class unity to back the team to a victory over Snider. Before the Powder Puff game, a parade of twenty cars colorfully decorated with signs and streamers honked their way to the game. At the pep rally, the junior girls proved victorious over the seniors in the Powder Puff football game. During halftime a relay team of boys gorged themselves in a pie-eating contest. As the close of the big week came, the final pep session rewarded the juniors as they captured the Spirit Trophy while the seniors and sophomores tied in their accumulated points. That evening North went on to beat Snider highlighting the week.

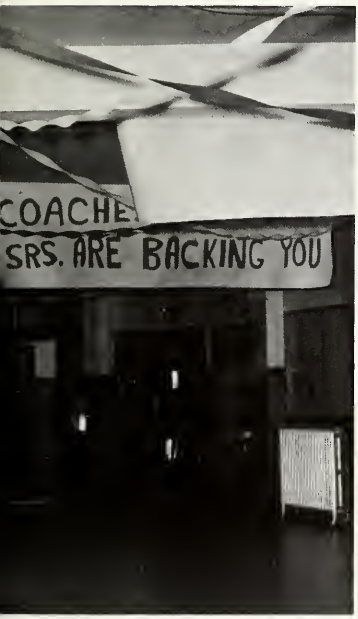
Members of the A-V Club decorate their car with a large movie projector for the parade which is before the Powder Puff game between the senior girls and junior girls.

During the Powder Puff football game, junior and quarterback Sandy Scheele runs to get out of the reach of a senior Becky Walker who means business.

Snider to highlight Spirit Week

Making banners backing the Redskins to a victory over Snider, gives students an opportunity to show their support during Spirit Week.

Decking the Senior Hall with strands of streamers, Ron Annis hangs the colorful decorations in the 220 corridor.



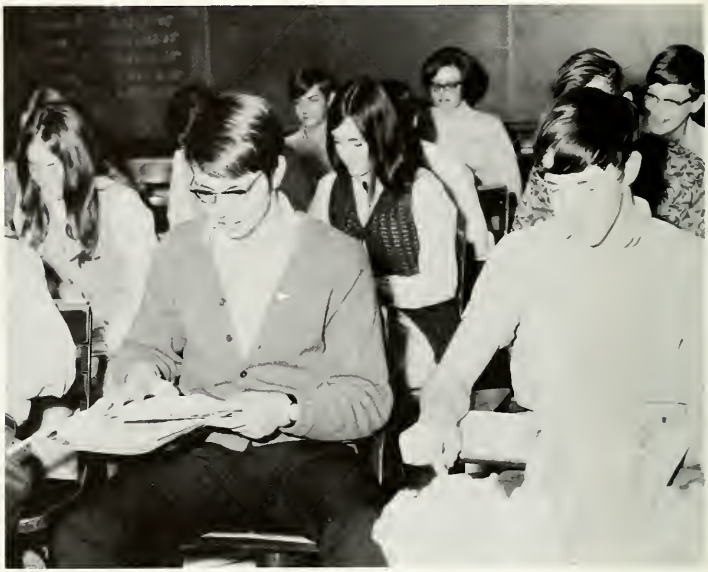
Brightening Domeland's circle with lively and enthusiastic pep signs, the seniors display their school spirit.

Upperclassmen decorate the traditional Senior Door with streamers of North's school colors, red and white.

Dirk discovers that time at North passes quickly

Foreign exchange student, Dirk Wulff, arrived by plane at New York from Osnabrueck, Germany before school opened in September. To be selected as an exchange student, Dirk applied to the American Field Service in New York. He was then interviewed, tested, and selected on the basis of his application. Dirk lived with the Walter Helmke family who also had to apply and to be accepted by the American Field Service.

Dirk actively participated in Domeland's way of life, while his singing talents entertained Redskins at concerts and assemblies. Dirk's senior year was filled with many extra-curricular activities such as A'Cappella, Student Council, Troubadours, and All City Choir. Academically, Dirk took courses in French, Advanced Math, English, Government, and Sociology.



Along with many other challenging subjects, Dirk is taking French. He has had five years before, but he finds the transition from French to German to English difficult.

Not knowing everything about the English language or American Literature, Dirk makes good use of the library. Since Dirk enjoys reading he finds an assortment to choose from.

Dirk finds something vaguely familiar about Ft. Wayne with its freezing temperatures and mounds of ice and snow.

High honors reward Skins' achievements

Four North Side seniors were selected as National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists from 15,000 of the most intellectual high school seniors in the country. The students were selected from the results of the qualifying test.

Dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism were some of the necessary qualities of North Side's four DAR Citizenship recipients. The faculty chose the winners from the names submitted by seniors.

DAR Citizenship recipients are seniors Sandy Jesse, Pam Mertz, Doug Brown, and Jim Benecke. Winners are chosen on the basis of their dependability, service, and leadership.

Kris Kemery, Mike Kipling, and John Thompson are the National Merit Semi-Finalists from North. They are chosen from a National test. John Thompson was not present when the picture was taken.

During tea at Jack's, Charley's substitute aunt recalls her life in Brazil. "Carnival En Brazil" represents the dancing during the carnival time in Brazil.

Large crowd sees senior play, "Charley's Aunt"

"Charley's Aunt," the senior play, was presented on January 29 and 30 by the North Side drama department.

With a boy get girl ending, the involved plot of "Charley's Aunt" unfolded as the play progressed. The delayed arrival of Charley's aunt presented problems to Charley and his friend Jack who had invited their girlfriends to meet her. Desperately, fellow Oxford roommate dressed up as Charley's aunt and met the girls to help out his friends. Surprisingly enough, the friend ends up with two marriage proposals while the real aunt observed.

The witty and humorous play was accented with elaborate costumes and clever English accents.

As a Christmas gift to Fort Wayne, North Side drama students starred in the "Wonderful World of Christmas," a Three Rivers Playhouse production.

Scolding Lord Fancourt Babberly for deceiving him, Mr. Stephen Spettique, as John Blair, gets very upset when he discovers that his prospective bride is a male student at Oxford.

Lending a helping hand to his friends isn't so bad, as Mike Tulley receives mixed emotions while posing as Charley's aunt. Mike found some advantages in playing the sweet old woman.

Portraying Mr. and Mrs. Claus, Jo Tancey and Pete Percival star in "The Wonderful World of Christmas" at the Three Rivers Playhouse.

Preparing the garden for tea, Mrs. Brasset, Billie Fisher, and a maid, Cheryl Smith, stop setting the table to converse with a passing friend and her restless daughter.

Assemblies entertain, inform, award Redskins.

Promoting school spirit, observing important events, and presenting noteworthy programs, the assemblies at Domeland proved beneficial to Redskins. The assemblies varied in nature from concerts to class elections and from juvenile delinquency to honor day.

Shortly after school opened, new teachers and school traditions were introduced to students at the opening assembly. Two traditional assemblies Honor Day and Senior Recognition Day, emphasized the achievements of the individual student. The Senior Day Recognition assembly was held for awarding outstanding seniors for accomplishments in many different areas.

Sophomore orientation assemblies informed the new Redskins of school rules, clubs, and traditions. Each class had nomination, acceptance, and installation assemblies for their class officers.

Assemblies fulfilled their purpose by entertaining, informing, and awarding students.

During the Christmas Bureau Assembly, Uncle Swing Tim Cooper talks to Santa Gary Bennett in a skit about the new toys for the coming year and how they work.

Preparing for the Christmas school concert, the Chanticleer girls spend many hours rehearsing their array of yuletide songs. The Chanticlears perform at many various concerts and programs.

Dressed in their concert attire, the orchestra plays for the Spring concert. The orchestra provides entertainment for all as they play a variety of music.

Former Miss America Miss Marilyn Van Durbur entertains Redskins with tales of her experiences and her version of the "Impossible Dream."

Returning for the College Day Program former Domeland graduates talk to interested students about preparing for college, campus life, and the advantages of going to college.

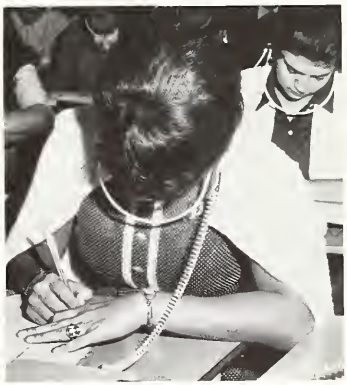
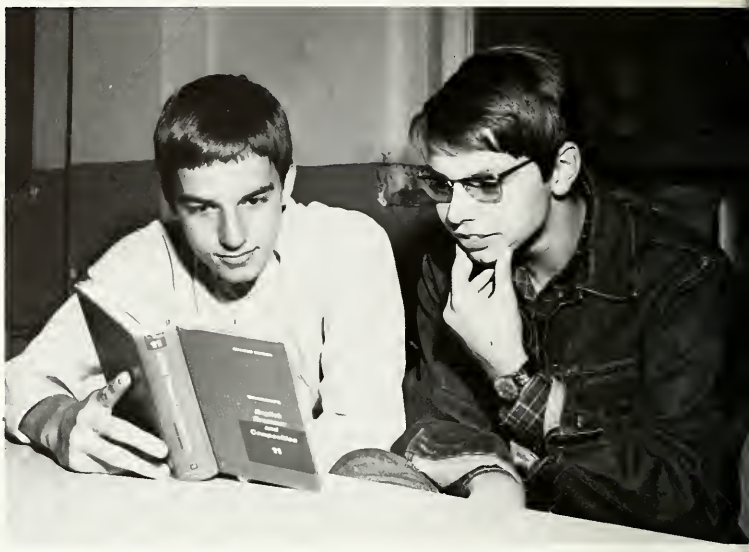
ACADEMIC

As Redskins end their year at North, they can look back to the great administration and teaching staffs. Their world has changed, as alterations can be seen just by walking down the halls. Students as well as teachers had to plan around renovation and make up for its difficulties by working despite noise and confusion. Although improvements went on, they did not hinder the academic standings. Experiencing the moon landing and the bringing back of specimens, together with attending assemblies for historical events gave the students a better understanding of the academic field and open opportunities. Academic curriculum gave students the basic training needed for their life beyond Domeland.



Foreign Language Department uses audio-lingual

Caryn Laier takes time from her daily routine to translate her Latin assignment of the steps of knowledge in domeland.



Former resident of Hamburg, Germany, Harold Blaettner, assists German foreign exchange student, Dirk Wulff, with an English problem.

lab in teaching

Starting off the year the language department added the Honors Program, designed for third year French and Spanish students. The Honors Program was an opportunity for students to compete against other students all over the United States. An educational eight weeks in France or Mexico was the prize for the winners.

The Outbound Ambassador Program was a new experiment in international living. It was a nation-wide competition for juniors who wished to visit a foreign country and to live with a native family for one year.

The department continued the audio-lingual method of teaching French and Spanish and also added three third year Spanish classes.

Senior Sara Kolin, points out the famous Sacre Cour of France to Mrs. Ransburg's fourth year French class.

Spanish foreign exchange teacher from Peru Mr. Villacorta, explains to students Pam Carpenter and Martin Curdes the fundamentals of Peruvian customs and cultures.

Cyrie Palmer, junior, searches the library shelves for an old world literature book to complete her English requirements.

Sophomore English students divide into groups to discuss such plays as, "Julius Caesar" as a part of their study of dramatic plays.

Diligently researching, Robert Shelton checks through many sources before he complies a final draft for his term paper.

Diagnostic Correction Lab develops vocabularies

Four of Miss Little's senior English class have questions about the literature that they are reading and want to know her opinion on the subjects of controversy.

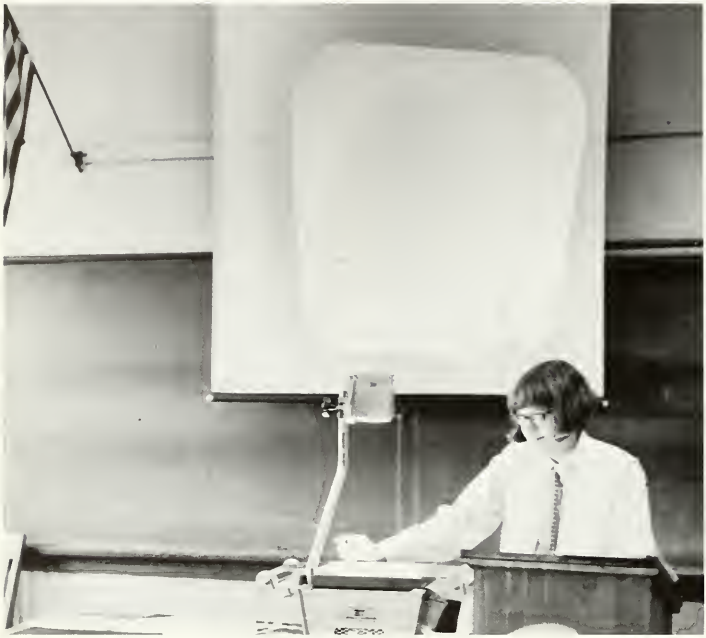
Underclassmen composed themes, acted in dramas, and researched term papers. Meanwhile, seniors studied Greek tragedies, discussed 20th century poetry, and read old world literature as part of the English department curriculum.

The English Department adjusted its curriculum to present material evolving out of students' needs and to generate interest for all students. Making the study of English more interesting proved to be worthwhile, because students learned to apply themselves to understanding English literature.

The English Department featured a newly devised Diagnostic Correction Lab opened to all students interested in developing their reading vocabularies.

Senior Bonnie Studebaker shows Becky Walker where to read as the class reads the drama "Marty" aloud. Reading a drama like this helps the student to develop his reading ability.

Work, speed, and accuracy needed in

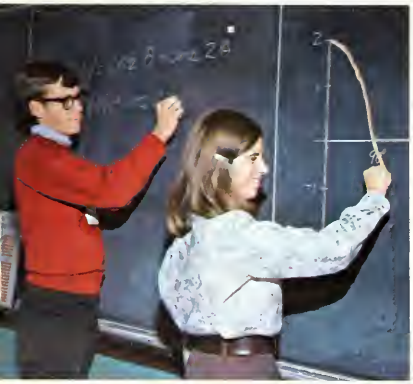


The teachers of the Mathematics Department guided students in the different fields of math.

Beginning algebra studied the basic concepts, while advanced algebra extended the elementary. Geometry dealt with studying planes and solids. Senior math contained trigonometry and quadratic systems. Fifth year mathematics study ranged from probability to calculus.

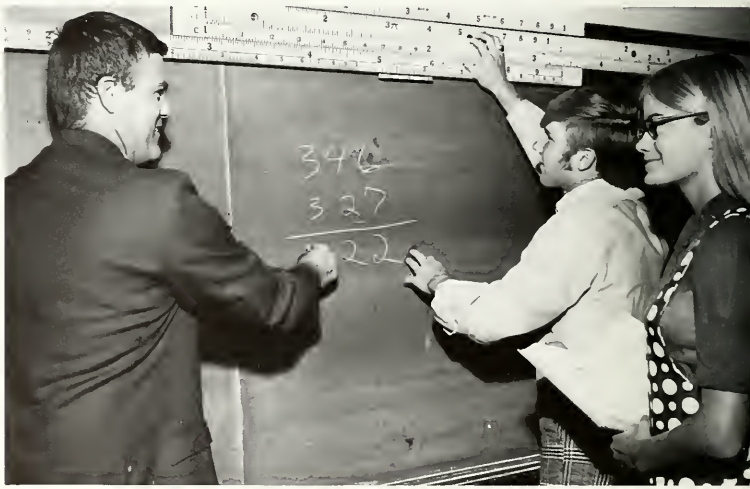
Redskins taking biology, chemistry, earth science, or physics had new equipment such as microscopes, in their classes. Biology students grasped a better understanding of life and nature from their lab experiments. Earth science students learned of the earth and its makeup. Physics dealt in the measure of distances and chemistry dealt with formulas and composition of elements.

By using the overhead projector, Karen Feller explains a geometry problem dealing with congruent angles.



Seniors John Knuth and Cindy Olinger try to solve a trigonmetric function in a senior math course. They then take the end result and record it on a graph.

Advanced algebra students Will Kline and Teresa Bonifas listen as Mr. Donald Hunter explains how to operate the slide rule and how to use it in their homework assignments.



both math and science courses

Experimenting with scientific toys, these students are able to visualize and to grasp an understanding of physics principles.

During their earth science class, junior Randy Wall and senior Linda Headford study and identify rock samples.

Mixing two elements to get a chemical reaction, Carolyn Reppett and Barb Zollars work on their chemistry lab experiment.

Past, present and future history is in the making

In United States history, juniors studied the struggles of the United States for independence. Denise Hansen and Duane Hartup examine a colonial recruting poster.

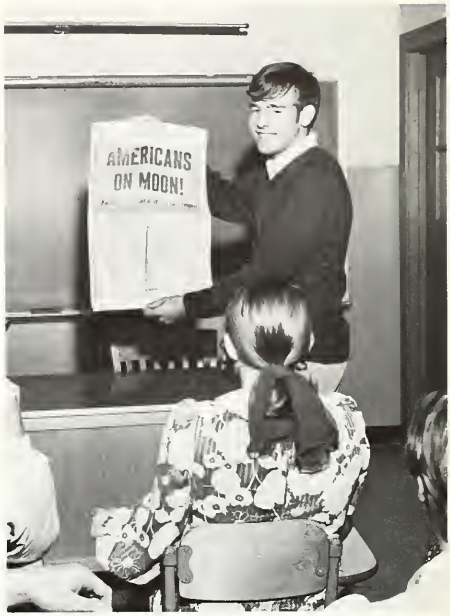
Sophomores, juniors, and seniors participated in world history, U.S. history, government, economics, sociology, Communism seminar, and world affairs.

By studying the past as well as the economic, social, and political forces of the present, the social studies department gave students a knowledge of the world today and an insight into the future.

U.S. and world history courses made detailed studies of the past. In sociology, students studied the problems and emotions of people. In economics, students learned the structure of U.S. democracy. The students in Communism seminar studied the value and danger of the soviet system. World affairs made a study of problems facing the U.S. in relation to foreign countries.

Mr. Malott explains to a government class the basic ideas of democracy on which the United States government is based.

Senior David Shaheen charts the point at which a nation's economy should reach equilibrium on a supply and demand graph in Mr. Certain's economics class.



Junior Dave Bossard explains his current event, a newspaper account of the moon landing, to his United States History class.

A sophomore world history class listens attentively to a student as she presents a book report on a historical subject for an extra credit assignment.

Drama gets new wardrobe; Art develops talent

Redskins were offered several different courses as electives in art. Courses included drawing still life, weaving placemats, and printing in various phases. Those students interested were required at first to take a basic course in the art fundamentals. In these different classes a student learned new techniques in using materials, such as making collages, cutting geometric figures from colorful construction paper, and lithographing from limestone.

Mr. Purkhiser, drama director, instructed the young actors and stage crew through a variety of plays and skits. With each production, students strove to better themselves for their future theatrical goals.

The drama department added nearly 350 costumes to the dramatics wardrobe for future senior plays, Varsity Varieties and other school productions.

Many practices and dress rehearsals are essential for perfection in acting and staging plays. These practices help one work toward his theatrical goals.

Stagecraft crew performs many duties helping Mr. Purkhiser, such as fixing lights and putting up scenery for the productions by the drama department.

Students do improvisations with costumes and props on the stage in the dramatics class to develop expression and creativity.

Lithography is the study of reproducing prints by way of stone. Art 7 students each had to do a sketch as a project and make pictures off the stone.

Sandy Westerhausen and Ida Green sketch a still life, which is one of the many drawings art students must complete to perfect their artistic skills.

Senior Doug Cook sketches a safety cartoon for his contribution to the Art Department's safety week display.

Teresa Clem, Bob Davis, and Dave Driver, learn the techniques of weaving in arts class. As a project, each student designs a colorful placemat.

Journalism students prepare for future with media

Cropping pictures to fit the specified measurements of the layouts, editors Nancy Wentz and Amanda Lusk give the yearbook final touches before it is published.

Advanced journalism students gained knowledge and experience by assuming more responsibilities on the Northerner. This gave them a more intimate view of newspaper functions.

Beginning journalism classes studied the performance and production of mass communications media. They were given the opportunity to work on the Northerner, Guide, and Legend to get experience.

Beginning speech students were instructed this year on the fundamentals of good speech delivery such as proper use of voice, gestures, and vocabulary.

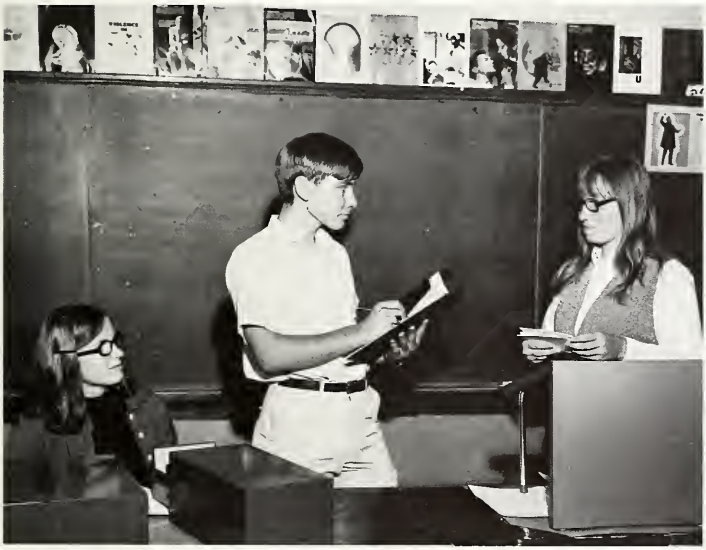
The debate team won numerous awards around the state this year while continuing to develop their skills with other advanced students.

Northerner staff editors, John Antonides and Mark Hansen, write down assignments for their staff members who gather the news and race to meet the deadlines.

Sophomore Pat Knight looks through negatives in the dark room trying to determine the quality of the pictures.

Advanced speech students in Mr. DeYoung's radio class practice the many aspects of radio announcing. The radio class was new at North Side this year.

Speech Department adds Radio and TV class



Cathy Abbot, Steve Shumaker, and Leslie Judd are engaged in a mock debate in Mr. Schultz's beginning speech class.

Sophomore Jane Dornbush gives a speech in Mr. Schultz's beginning class while applying what she has learned.

Music Department earns marching band uniforms

With the music room under construction, the music groups were forced to use the auditorium for a temporary classroom.

Chanticleers and the marching band earned their new uniforms by selling candy and soliciting donations from the North Side territory.

The phases of the Music Department are training choir, varsity choir, and training orchestra. Music literature and theory were offered to the advanced students who wanted to produce their own music. The sophomore arts course combined the study and appreciation of fine music and painting and helped the participating students to discover and understand the different aspects of music and painting.

The Redskin marching band practices for a performance in their new reversible uniforms. The band used several different forms of money-making projects to earn the money to buy the uniforms.

Sophomores Lois Paxson, Mary Jo Dick, and Brian Helling, and junior Pam Key busy themselves with tuning their violins before the training orchestra begins practice.

Mr. Holloway directs senior members of A'Cappella who are trying out for Troubadours. A student must be in A'Cappella before being eligible for Troubadours.

Junior Phyllis Carol carries her new marching band uniform to a bus before leaving for the NISBOVA contest in Columbia City.

Steve Inscoe, Debbie Richards, Sharman Harter, Doug Brown, and Debbie Gething at the piano, practice for the music department.

A family management group, which includes senior boys as well as senior girls, discusses the methods and problems of living in and managing a family.

Sophomore Janet Heinze irons a blouse in intermediate clothing class, which includes sewing and grooming.

Homemakers of the future get experience

With odds 275 to 3, boys as well as girls participated in the Home Economics Department courses.

Clothing, grooming, cooking, child care, interior decorating, and home nursing were just a few of the subjects open to interested sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Family living and management were available only to seniors. Although all majors were girls, boys were able to minor in home economics.

The problems caused by renovation such as no gas for the stoves and refrigerators were well worth the trouble, according to Mrs. Crocker and Mrs. Baugh. The Home Economics Department will be enlarged and entirely remodeled for a nicer atmosphere for working in the various phases and courses.

After cooking comes cleaning up. Sophomore girls in the intermediate foods classes learn the importance of washing the dishes after preparing a meal.

Renovation delays Industrial Arts metals classes

Mr. Robert Edwards and other Industrial Arts teachers had their hands full with over five-hundred students taking drawing, metals, drafting, wood, motors, electricity, or electronics.

Included in the department, Industrial Co-operative Training (I.C.T.) gave students the opportunity to get some experience while earning money and credits. They worked a minimum of fifteen hours a week.

The renovation project at North Side caused the metals classes to be delayed for several weeks because the metals room was undergoing repair.

The Industrial Arts department used many different kinds of tools ranging from an inexpensive screwdriver to an expensive power saw for the projects made by the students throughout the year.

Sophomores Mike David and Naf Maloley measure a piece of wood in preparation for a wood project.

Two students work on a small motor in an effort to learn how it and other motors function.

Girls learn sportsmanship, gain athletic skills

Speed-a-way, swimming, volleyball, gymnastics, badminton, archery, and coed square dancing are a few of the sports enjoyed by the sophomore girls' physical education classes under the direction of Mrs. Beer and Miss Sparks.

Advanced physical education class met seventh period and ran as a no-credit no-grade intramural program. Coed swimming involving both boys' and girls' intramural classes was used for the first time.

Boys' physical education classes supervised by Mr. Will Doehrman, consisted of different activities from square dancing, flag football, basketball, to the required semester agility tests.

The department purchased new basketballs, nets, and other equipment to replace the worn equipment.

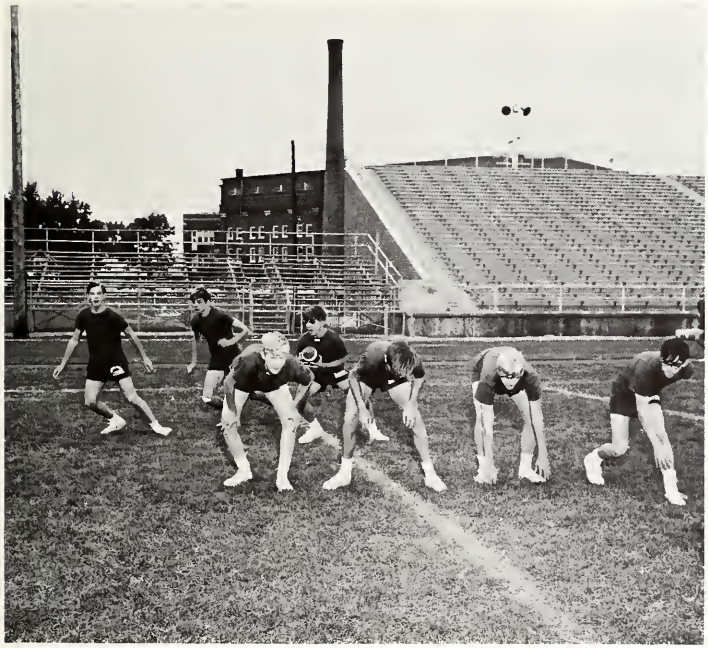
Following the rules of safety is a important part of gymnastics. Rose Koontz spots for Sharon Layton and Shelley Waechter as they perform balance beam routines.

Sophomore girls jump for the ball, hoping to make a goal for their team. Speed-a-way, a game which combines soccer and field hockey, is the first unit of girls' P. E.

Sophomore Rhonda Wraley demonstrates her gymnastic skills as she works out on the uneven parallel bars.

Flag football and square dancing constitute boys P.E.

Mr. DePietro's boys' P.E. classes exercise at the beginning of each class period to strengthen their muscles and to build their cordination.



Flag football encourages boys to display team work and sportsmanship as well as to develop their football knowledge.

Basketball was one of the activities played by the boys in gym classes. Each class chose a team to play in a P. E. tourney.

Business Classes see data processing equipment;

With the help of her book, Gail Doell takes down the message coming over the dictaphone in shorthand.

Brenda Burkhalter and Jackie Levin prepare to use the ditto machine to run off some copies of a test for a teacher. This is one of the various jobs that the service center does.

Junior Janice Warnick uses an adding machine in business course. This machine is much larger compared to today's machine.

Shuffle typing programs

Renovation caused two major problems for the Business Department, the cold draft from the addition of a new room and noise from the workmen's machinery. When in shorthand students who used the dictaphones had great difficulties in hearing their teachers.

To encourage competition between students, beginning typing classes were shuffled so students with the same typing speed were placed in the same class.

Some business classes took a field trip to observe data processing equipment being used in offices throughout the city.

Department head Mr. John Walter had about eight hundred students enrolled in the offered business courses: Beginning and advanced typing, bookkeeping, business math, shorthand, clerical practice, and general business.

Mr. Cummings, Mr. Walter's student teacher, helps senior Mark Hefner with his bookkeeping problems. Mr. Cummings worked with students during the beginning months of school.

Miss Virginia Ayres points out the parts of the typewriter to Sarah Pressler. All typing students have to learn these parts.

Mr. Decker's students listen as he explains their Applied Business Math problems to them. This course deals mainly with problems brought about in regular business transactions.

Distributive Education class numbers eighteen employers, twenty-one seniors

After learning to use the printing press, seniors Cindy Vickers and Rick Shory set it up to run off some signs as part of their studies in class.

Distributive Education students studied the latest methods of merchandising, advertising, and salesmanship. D. E. had eighteen employers working with twenty one seniors to make them qualified workers.

Cooperative Office Education dealt with office training and experience. As in D. E., students attended their regular morning classes and had one period of D. E. or C. O. E. and worked the afternoon.

Industrial Cooperative Training helped boys learn a trade and operate tools. Power tools used were the type that sands metal smooth and engraves tiny letters.

Coordinators for the program were Mr. Hamm, Mr. Phillips, and Mr. Ivy, all hoping for a larger enrollment in Distributive Education.

Seniors Debbie Bowlin and Gary Arnold arrange a window display of candy in the Distributive Education office in a fashion that attracts the attention of the public.

Using his effective sales speech, senior Randy Harter, tries to sell D. E. vice-president, Chris Ohler, a tape recorder to test his persuasion power on the public.

Making campaign posters for their calendar sales, D. E. students advertise one of their money-raising projects.

As a local businessman the manager of Hefner's takes time to show a D. E. student the new line of cars Hefner's has to offer and the way they advertise their products.

the Dome's eternal memories

Organizations

Three new organizations were started during the year. For students interested in playing Chess, Mr. Alvin Harris formed the Chess Club. The Railroad Club attracted students who have a hobby of model railroads. As the first of its kind in the community, the Secretaries Club was open to any girl enrolled in a business course.

The clubs dealt with service, common interests, and achievements of futures in certain fields. Most clubs met for half-hour sessions after-school once a month. Several clubs were on an honorary basis.

Extra-curricular activities gave students an opportunity to work together in sponsoring after-game dances, carnival booths, service and money-making projects.

Division of Council is issue facing representatives

Student Council officers are Mike Kipling, president; Bill Bickham, vice-president; Sandy Jesse, secretary; and Richard Yost, treasurer.

Under the direction of Mr. James Lewinski and Miss Ruth Eudaley, the Student Council studied major issues concerning Redskins.

Student Council officers were: Mike Kipling, president; Bill Bickham, vice-president; Sandy Jesse, secretary; Rich Yost, treasurer; and Tim Cooper, as parliamentarian.

The Standing Committee was headed again by Sara Kolin, while the Safety Committee, School Spirit Committee, Cultural Arts Committee, Communications Committee, were headed by Jim Benecke, Greg Mertz, Marianne Blue, Mark Helmke, and Dan Gebhart, respectively.

Two major issues studied by the committees were the lowering of the five-point grade requirement and whether or not to divide the Student Council into two houses.

Santa Denny Parker and his elves Barb Bobilya and Terry Mensch show some interested parents the Student Council Christmas cards on sale at Back-to-School Night.

Quill and Scroll and 1500 Club members were chosen at the publications banquet January 14.

Quill and Scroll is an international club open to seniors only. To be in the club, the students had to be in the upper third of their class and must have done superior work on either the Northerner or Legend. They were recommended for the club by Miss Norma Thiele, publications adviser, and then accepted.

Northerner staff members received points for their work, and when they compiled 1500 points, they were eligible for membership in the 1500 Club.

FTA members sponsored student-faculty ballgame

An assembly during American Education Week and a faculty-varsity basketball game were sponsored by the Future Teachers of America Club.

Members of the Club, under the direction of sponsors Mr. Augustus Schoonover and Mr. Larry Bott, learned techniques and practices of teaching. They became familiar with the teaching profession through guest speakers and discussions at meetings.

Other FTA activities included a fall tea to initiate new members and to install officers, and a spring banquet to honor graduating seniors.

The FTA members observed in April, the Teaching Careers Month by sponsoring the Elf Project and the Meet Your Teachers Contest.

Contributing to FTA's Elves for Teachers project, senior Jo Tancey delivers an apple to her favorite teacher during April Teaching Careers Month.

Charging books in and out, running errands, arranging the card catalogue, and helping students were the duties of the Library Club.

Members of the club, sponsored by Mrs. Fae Stafford, studied methods and problems of libraries.

Library Club activities included a Christmas party and a dinner at the end of the year.

National Thespians was an honorary club open to students having an outstanding interest either in acting, or in staging. The students were chosen by Mr. James Purkhiser on the basis of their participation and responsibility in school plays as well as in outside drama activities.

Z-Clubs sponsored annual school carnival, dance;

Z-Club members Linda Morken and Sara Colpitts sell donuts in the cafeteria. The club had money making projects to raise money for an organ they presented to the school.

The three Z-Clubs, sponsored by Mrs. Jacqueline Hutmacher, combined service and enjoyment in their fulfillment of many activities.

New members were initiated into the clubs at a fall tea. Representatives of the North Side Z-Clubs attended the All City Z-Club tea at Bishop Dwenger. In December, members went on a ski trip to Mount Holly with Key Club. A traditional spring tea for mothers was held.

Projects included a donut sale in the cafeteria every morning and the All-School Carnival, which Z-Club planned and sponsored.

Entertainment for residents at Glen Acres Old Age Home was one service project of the club. The members also went trick-or-treating for UNICEF at Halloween. Every Saturday, members took turns going shopping and doing odd jobs for a blind couple in the surrounding community.

Doing good deeds for the orphans at the Allen County Children's Home and Saint Vincent Villa were just some of the many service projects performed by Key Club members throughout the year.

Being a service to the community as well as to Domeland, they collected money and parked cars at sporting events and for alumni mothers, helped in cleaning State School's surroundings, held a paper drive, and helped in organizing the Christmas Bureau Project and the Teachers Assembly.

North Side's student directory, the Key, was published by the Key Club members. They collected students names, addresses, telephone numbers, and homeroom numbers and compiled the names alphabetically in classes for the directory.

Sponsors, Mr. Ronald Certain, Mr. David Esterline, and Mr. Tom Dohrman, assisted the three clubs in their many activities.

Meeting deadlines, editing Legend busies staff

Legend staff members busied themselves this year interviewing teachers, writing assignments, taking pictures, and meeting deadlines, in an effort to publish the yearbook on time. Miss Norma Thiele served as adviser to the staff.

Staff assignments were Mandy Lusk, editor-in-chief; Nancy Wentz, assistant editor; Harry Francies, sports editor; Steve Bogenschutz, assistant; Sue Hollopeter, organizations editor; Dave Olry, assistant; Jenny Motz, business manager; Miles Clifton, senior and faculty editor; and Jacque Wilkerson, underclass editor.

Legend photographers were Dan Bowman, Bill Guevara, Pat Knight, and Bob Davis.

Meets at Elmhurst and New Haven, and a Purdue Legislative Assembly in West Lafayette were attended by members of the Debate Team and Speech Club, sponsored by Mr. Gary Schultz. Members also participated in the sectional, regionals, and state tournaments held by the Indiana High School Forensic Association. Students participating in these meets tried to gain enough points to become members of the NFL.

The members of the two groups sponsored an Information Hour for parents. All of the dances held after North Side games were also sponsored by the Speech Club and Debate Team members. At the end of the year a banquet was held by the two groups to honor the performers.

Helicon featured guest speakers; studied fine arts

Guest speakers gave Helicon members new insights into the enjoyment of various aspects of literature. Mr. Robert Pugh and Mrs. Marjorie Spoolstra sponsored the club, which is open to students with a B+ average in English.

Helicon's activities included a potluck dinner at the beginning of the year and a spring tea for mothers of the members. At Christmas members entertained patients at the Allen County Home with carols, refreshments, and a visit from Santa Claus. The club again provided the English Cup Awards for the outstanding English student of the year. A traditional Farewell Banquet was held at the end of the year.

JCL sold book covers; sponsored carnival booth

Latin students learned about the history, holidays, custom, and superstitions of the ancient Romans in the JCL Club.

The highlight of the year's activities for JCL was the annual traditional Roman Banquet. Sophomore "slaves" in togas served their junior and senior "masters" and Roman food was served. Other activities included a picnic at Shoaff Park in the fall, and a Christmas party with MLC.

A cake walk at the carnival was one of the projects sponsored by JCL. Another project was the sale of North Side book covers at the beginning of the year.

The club was sponsored by Mrs. Janet Weber.

MLC gave foreign language students the opportunity to learn about the people and customs of other countries. Members heard travelogues and reports at the regular meetings of the club. Slides, souveniers, and artifacts from foreign lands were shown by students, teachers, and guest speakers, who had collected them while traveling abroad.

The annual picnic at Shoaff Park was held by the club at the beginning of the year. Members also had a joint party with JCL at Christmas. MLC sponsored a "jail" booth at the carnival.

The club, which was sponsored by Mrs. Ramona Ransburg, was open to all interested students who had taken a course in foreign language, excluding Latin.

President Linda Getts and vice-president Mandy Lusk discuss plans for MLC's carnival booth with club members.

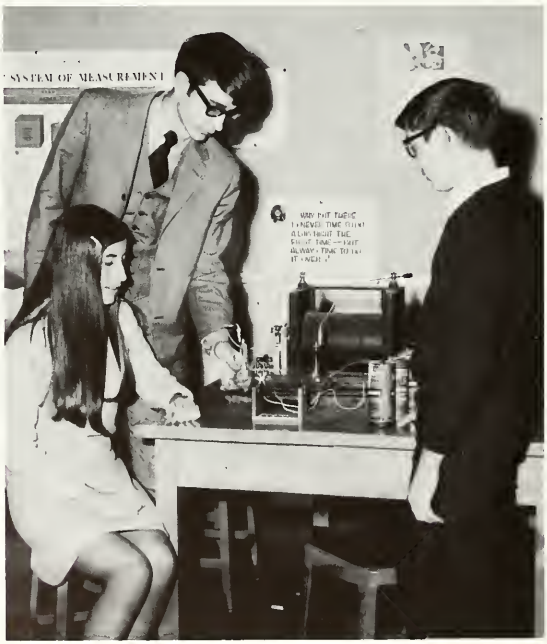
Phy-Chem travel to Chicago Science Museum



A field trip to Chicago's Museum of Natural Science and History highlighted the year's activities for Phy-Chem. Members of the club learned about various topics related to science through discussion and experiments at the meeting. Guest speakers gave the members information about job opportunities in the science field. Members who wished to, entered projects in the Science Fair, where awards and scholarships were given to students with outstanding projects. Another project was a study of the natural geology of Allen County.

The club, open to all students who have passed chemistry or physics, is sponsored by Mr. Merle Rice and Mr. Beryl Lewis.

Seniors Amy Smith and Dave Whisler look on as Mike Kipling works on a cathrode ray tube experiment in Phy-Chem.

Modern Music Masters delve deeper into music

Tri-M or the Modern Music Masters Club is a national honorary music society composed of about 50 members from major musical performing groups at Domeland, such as the Band, A'Cappella, Chanticleers, and the Orchestra.

Under the direction of Music Director, Mr. David Platt, the Tri-M Club tried to promote an interest in music. It also honored the talented and the devoted musicians.

Tri-M officers for the year were Pat Falvy, president; Bridgett Stuckey, secretary; and Todd Grove, as the Club's treasurer.

Membership in the club was determined by the Tri-M actives and teachers on the basis of the student's scholarship, character, cooperation, leadership, and service. Each member of Tri-M is required to spend a spike period of one semester in which active members can ask a spike for little favors.

Tri-M officers are Bonnie Studebaker, Bridgett Stuckey, Bruce Turner, Pat Falvy and Todd Grove. Tri-M is a honorary club for music students.

Y-Teens make Santa Claus candy jars for residents of Lawton Nursing Home. The jars were presented during the Christmas party held at the nursing home by members of the club.

Y-Teens worked in coordination with the YWCA to promote world fellowship. The service club was sponsored by Mrs. Georgianna Watkins and Mr. Keith Fischer, a newcomer to Domeland.

Service projects included favors for the Veterans Hospital on Veterans Day, babysitting at the Christ Child Festival for Christmas, and participation in the YWCA's World Fellowship Festival. At Christmas, the Y-Teen members also made Santa candy jars and presented them to patients at Lawton Nursing Home. Other projects pursued by the members, were a bake sale and a dart toss booth at the All-School Carnival.

Christmas caroling and a slumber party were recreational activities of the club. The club was open to any girls interested in service.

Job opportunities seen by Business, Secretaries

A Christmas party and a social event at the end of the year were a few of the activities of the Business Club, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Wilma Ashe.

Business Club members learned about opportunities for employment in the community, and were encouraged to further their education in the business field.

Projects included a mod pen sale and the printing of tickets and programs for school activities.

A new branch of the National Future Secretaries of America Club was organized by the shorthand class. The purpose of the club, which was sponsored by Mrs. Irma Johnson, was to promote interest in secretarial work and to encourage further education in the secretarial field.

Business Club members are (Front row) Darlene Fox, Becky Gordon, Pam Patterson, Freida Whittecar, Kathy Gardt, Connie Hanauer. Railroaders Club took field trips; Chess Club had competitive play

The Railroad Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. Merle Rice and Mr. Glenn Bickel, learned about railroads through movies and trips.

Members visited the Penn-Central freight car shops. Another trip was to see private coach cars, including that of President Roosevelt. A spring trip took members to Chicago's Pullman car works.

A new organization, the Chess club, was initiated at the end of last year for interested students.

Sponsored by Mr. Alvin Harris, the club was formed to give students interested in playing chess a chance to compete with others in tournaments. Members also studied different techniques and strategies to improve their chess games.

Railroad club members are Richard Alford, Charles Willer, Ed Collins, Gregg Carpenter, Gary Parkins, David Maus, David Doell, Ed Hefner, and Dave Glass.

A-V Club, under the sponsorship of Miss Sandra Smith, operated tape recorders, record players, and projectors. Members also held clinics to show teachers and other students how to use the audio-visual equipment.

A-V sponsored two booths at the carnival. One was a balloon popping contest. The other showed movies which were made by some of the members.

Members of Ripplettes learned synchronized swimming techniques and stunts under the direction of sponsors of Mrs. Lynn Beer and Mrs. Kaylene Long.

In the fall, water workshops were sponsored by the club. After that, tryouts for new members were held. Activities of the club included a spring tea for mothers, a trip to Bloomington for the Indiana University water show, and the annual Ripplettes water show.

Varsity, Concert bands played at assemblies, games,

The Concert Band consisted of almost one hundred members this year as it played at all of North Sides concerts, including the Winter, Christmas, and Spring assemblies. It also played concerts at some junior high schools, and other high schools, and in contests when the schedule permitted.

The Varsity Band was open to all wind and percussion players at North Side, and met every day for a full credit course, as did the Concert Band. It also played in all North Side concerts.

Both bands performed with the Marching Band in the fall, although they each performed as a different concert unit.

Three choral groups participate in concerts for service

Nearly 90 voices chosen from the junior and senior classes composed the A'Cappella choir, the schools largest performing choral group, which is directed by Mr. Willard Holloway.

Members for A'Cappella are chosen on the basis of auditions which are open to students in music groups as well as the general student body.

A'Cappella centered its attention on school concerts and assemblies and an occasional concert outside of school. A fall picnic and spring banquet highlight its social activities.

Girls perform at half-time for ball games

Reserve cheerleaders created new cheers under the direction of Mrs. Lynn Beer, physical education teacher.

The cheerleaders were divided into four groups who took turns cheering at reserve games. A project of the group was the sale of booster buttons at the beginning of the football season.

Arrowettes, sponsored by Mrs. Betty Wagner, consisted of twirlers and pom-pom girls.

The group performed at North's home football and basketball games. At the Indiana State Band Contest, both twirlers and pom-poms took first places. Arrowettes also sold candy for the music department.

Led by Mr. Barry Ashton, the Wildsiders consisted of 18 students who were selected by auditioning last year. The members of Wildsiders met before school and received no academic credits.

Six saxophones, four trombones, four trumpets, a pianist, a drummer, a guitarist, and a string base player were the instrumental parts used in the Wildsiders. The big band players dealt mostly with jazz. They participated in school concerts as well as social functions, and the NISBOVA band contest.

Two dance bands that primarily concentrated on the fundamentals of jazz were directed by Mr. Fred Autenrieth. These two dance bands were for gaining knowledge and skill rather than for performance.

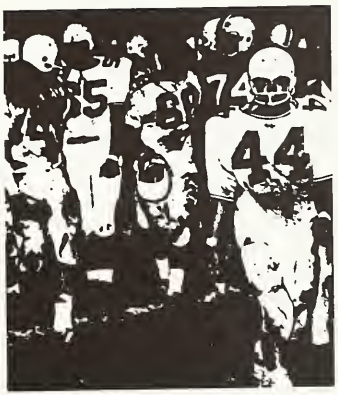
SPORTS



The existence of renovation caused several problems for the sports-minded Redskin fans. During the football season spectators walked around the workmen's machinery until the stadium was finished for the Homecoming game with Snider. The cross-country team was without dressing rooms for their entire season. The tennis team repeated as city champions for the third straight year and captured the Sectional meet.

The varsity football team had a good season with a 4-5 record. The reserves went the entire season without recording a single loss and only one tie. Football coaches formed a 'Scalpers Club' to reward players for excellence in performing on the defensive team.

North records 4-5 record against football foes,

Senior half-back Greg Adams takes advantage of the hole in the line of scrimmage made by the fellow members of the team to gain extra yardage.

Head coach Duane Brown led the Redskin football team to a 4-3 city record and a 4-5 overall.

The Red and White won their first game then dropped a pair of one point losses to city foes. Senior fullback Bill Cowan led the team in total points scored. Offensively the Skins out scored their opponents with a 10.2 to 9.5 points per game. South Side retained the spirit stick by beating the Redskins 14-8. North won the Homecoming game against Snider in the most obverse conditions by a 6-0 tally.

Assistant coach Joe DiPetro started a new honorary club called The Scalpers Club for the defensive line. Each player was rated on his performance and the boys that accummulated enough points from each of five positions; end, linebacker, tackle, guard, and safety are admitted to the club.

Fullback Bill Cowan rambles his way past a mob of Elmhurst defenders to pick up a first down.

Mighty reserves finish with impressive 7-0-1

North Side's reserve football team compiled an impressive seven win, no loss, and one tie record. The tie came in a rain soaked game with the Bishop Dwenger team. That score was low with each team scoring only six points apiece. The Central reserves were forced to forfeit because of injuries. South Side reduced their schedule for their reserve team so Columbia City came to take South's place on our schedule. The reserves beat them eight to nothing. The team rolled over Bishop Luers with their highest scores of the season, a 28-0 victory. Six of the eight games played were recorded as shut-outs.

This year the cross-country coaches, Duane Rowe and John Walters were joined by David Esterline. Mr. Esterline graduated from North and ran for the Redskin's cross-country team. He will also assist in the coaching the track team.

The Varsity Squad had a 2-1 record. Junior, Tim Zumbaugh proved to be a consistant finisher for the Redskins. Zumbaugh placed third in the Sectional cross-country meet, then the next weekend, he placed first in the Regionals. The Redskin team finished sixth in the Regionals. Zumbaugh was North's only participant in the state cross-country meet. The only Invitational meet victory the cross-country team captured was the Goshen meet.

Cheering squad spreads enthusiasm and spirit into spectators

Seven of the reserve cheerleaders perform one of their many cheers at a reserve game. A group of seven reserve cheerleaders are present at every reserve game.

The cheerleading squad was made up of four seniors and two juniors. The senior members of the squad were Cindy Gernhart, Sharmon Harter, Pam Mertz, and Sandy Fick. Carol Masloob and Gayle Brinker were the two underclass members. Sandy Fick was chosen as the captain of the team. At summer cheerleading camp the team brought back two first place and two second place ribbons for their routines. The squad won second place for the team competition. Cindy was top finisher from North with a second place finish in individual scoring.

Mrs. Beer sponsored the cheerleaders. In addition to the uniforms handed down from past squads the girls added some new uniforms and accessories. The girls enthusiasm helped the students to show their support of the Redskins.

The varsity cheerleaders are Captain Sandy Fick, Pam Mertz, Sharmon Harter, Gayle Brinker, Carol Masloob, and Cindy Gernhart. The squad took second place in summer cheerleading camp.

The varsity cheerleaders go through the cheer, "Team" during a time-out at one of North's home games. The girls do much to keep the enthusiasm in North Side's fans.

Senior Mike Tulley listens for a response from the crowd for his cheer. As Ceremonial Indian Mike attends all home games.

Varsity Cheerleaders perform the chant "Wendy" with the girls' and boys' cheerblocks singing and clapping along.

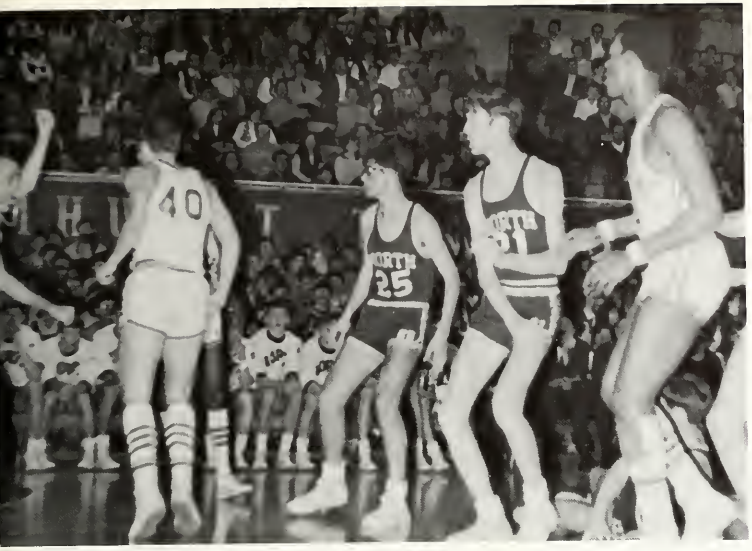
This year the boys cheerblock put some color into their routine. They bought red T-shirts with N.S.H.S. on the front.

Senior Chuck Scheele attempts to block the shot of his opponent from Bishop Dwenger. The team won easily for their final city victory, 76-61.

Coach Hey, team win first city title in 16 years;

Head coach By Hey led the varsity team to a perfect 8-0 city record to win North's first city title since 1954. This was coach Hey's first city title as head coach. Senior guard Steve Heiniger won the individual scoring honors in the city by compiling 417 points in twenty games for an 20.85 points per game average. Steve topped the thirty points per game mark a total of four times throughout the season. Offensively North scored 1460 points for a 73-points per game average, while their opponents scored 1,290 points for 64.50 average. In the Dwenger Tourney North beat Bishop Luers in the first game by 81-53 tally, but lost to Snider in the championship game by a 71-63 score. A new high game score by a North Side team was set at the South Bend Riley game as North topped them 98.74. North had only one game into overtime action during the regular season, and that was the game with Central it took two overtime periods before North came out on top by a 68-63 score.

Doug Brown jumps with the center from Michigan City to start the second period of play. North lost to the Red Devils, 83-74. Michigan City was a top team in the press polls and they gave the team their first loss.



John Ankenbruck and Doug Brown have surprised looks on their faces as the referee calls a foul on South Side. South Side player No. 40 objects to the call, but North still walked away with the game.

the Dome's eternal memories

REDSKINS

Entering a darkened classroom five minutes late was not an unusual happening in Domeland. Renovation brought with it many classrooms with windows covered in black plastic, clocks that wouldn't work, and a bell system that didn't operate.

Renovation didn't keep the Redskins from their normal school activities. Spirit Week highlighted the finish of football and united the three classes with one common goal; to support the Redskin team and coaches.

With the help of the faculty members, the student body was able to work toward a better future through cooperation, guidance, and friendship.

Busy moments kept Dr. Anthis schedule full of Redskin events

"Big Chief" of Domeland, Dr. Bill C. Anthis takes time out of his busy schedule as a principal to ponder over important upcoming school issues.

Completing his twelveth year at Domeland and sixth as principal, Dr. Bill C. Anthis guided the Redskins through a busy schedule of school activities.

Despite difficulties resulting from renovation, such as no working clocks, no bell system, and the shuffling of classrooms, Dr. Anthis continued the regular Redskin routine with a smile.

Outside Domeland activities, Dr. Anthis belongs to the American Legion, Forest Park Methodist Church, Masonic Lodge, Scottish Rite, and Rotary. He is also a life member of the state PTA.

Valedictorian in his senior year at Patoka High, Dr. Anthis, in 1967 was listed in "Who's Who in the Midwest." He recieved his bachelor's and master's at Indiana State University and obtained his doctor's degree from Indiana University.

Mrs. Lehman aided Dr. Anthis in many ways. She could be seen often passing out daily bulletins in the hall.

Dr. Anthis' busy schedule keeps him on the move every day, helping in making decisions as well as attending conferences.

Cooks' and custodians' goal was perfection

Measuring flour for rolls, Mildred Murphy makes them oven-fresh each day to feed the ravenous Redskins.

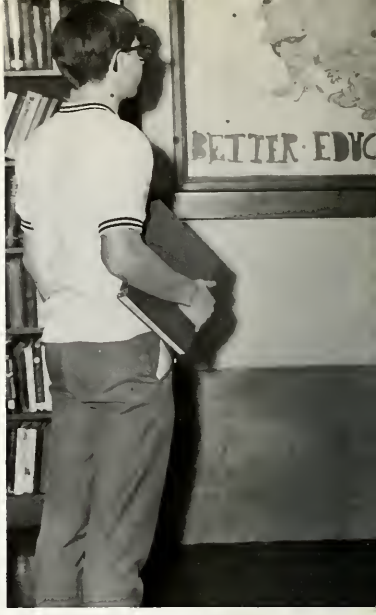
Listening intently for a little buzz, sophomores as well as other new students participate in Domeland's required hearing tests, given annually.



Interested in a part-time job, sophomore Scot Schnelker scans the Job Opportunities Board for an idea of jobs available.

Friendship, cooperation bring the sophomores

Upperclassmen are amused as they watch an incoming sophomore getting initated by rolling a peanut with his nose down the sidewalk.

Sophomores Sam Chantaca and Rhonda Wraley are examples of what problems can result when two girls share the same locker such as an over abundence of coats and books.

Sophomore students find the library a good place for some quiet studying. The library was open before and after school for students to take advantage of its facilities.

together as one united class for future years

Learning the hard way to respect senior tradition, such as the Senior Door, sophomore, Tim Wilson gets corrected by seniors, Bob Hammond and Allan Knerr.

Adapting to the new atmosphere of Domeland, the sophomores started off the year by participating in spirit week. Tying the senior class in points, the sophomores displayed their potential to get organized plus spirit and enthusiasm.

Sophomores, guided by Mr. Klocke, planned for their future years by seeing movies, attending orientation assemblies, and having conferences with Mrs. Watkins and Mr. Timler.

This was just the first of the sophomores three educational and interesting years in high school.

Trying her luck with the vending machines, sophomore Beth Menges hopes, at least, for her money to be returned.

Putting the finishing touches on the Class of '71's car, juniors secure a life-size dummy of a Redskin on the top of Mr. Bill's car for the spirit week parade.

Junior, Jaci Graves doesn't seem one bit surprised by her callers' invitation to the big event of the year, the Junior Prom.

Junior class, led by Ackerman, captures the spirit

Down by the river, a sandy seat serves just as well as a desk in study hall to these studious juniors who try to cram for a semester final in English.

Putting on her prettiest smile, junior, Nancy Scheeler prepares for her underclass pictures. A new picture system of color photographs in various sizes was adopted.

trophy and works toward a united junior class

With the spirit trophy as a goal to work toward, juniors put an extra effort in the making of all their signs for the spirit week activities.

With Mr. Weber as class advisor, the juniors elected their class officers; Bruce Ackerman, president; Greg Racine, vice-president; Denise Hoffman, secretary-treasurer; Barb Bobilya; social chairman. The officers helped to lead the juniors through class projects such as: spirit week, PSAT tests, and the carnival. They also planned the big event of the second year at Domeland, the junior prom.

Juniors joined in their efforts with signs and a large tepee ensembled on the football field, in order to win the Powder Puff football game and the spirit trophy.

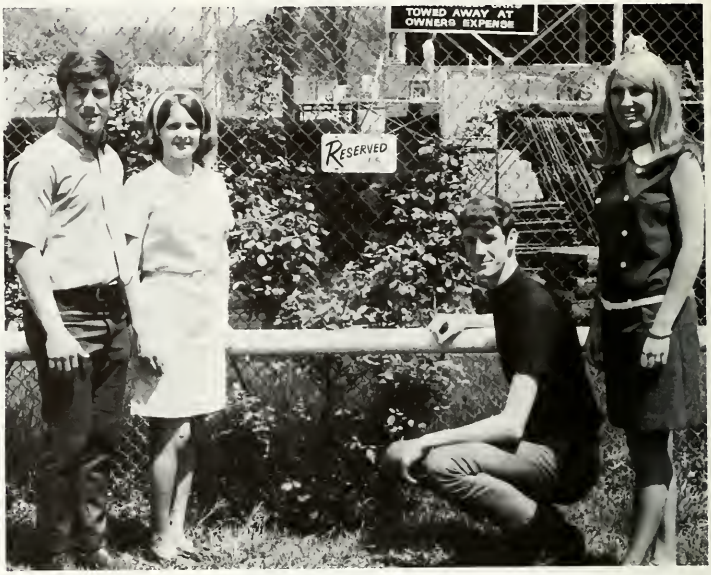
Seniors have fond memories of Domeland;

Caught in an unexpected moment of fright, Miles Clifton seeks shelter in his locker from the feared Domeland Phantom.



Working with senior senators, class officers Greg Adams, vice-pres.; Judie Taylor, sec.-treas.; Doug Brown, pres.; and Frankye Gemmer, soc. chrm. plan activities to create class unity.

friendship and unity achieved

Adding the finishing touches to the Senior Hall for Spirit Week, Mike Kipling tapes the large '70 sign to the ceiling for a three dimensional effect.

Seniors were very busy getting ready for the many activities that were planned. Miss Elizabeth Little, senior sponsor, helped in the planning the Senior Play, Brunch, and the closing activities of the year, such as prom, commencement, and canoe race.

The class officers put many hours into each event to be successful and fun. Each one tried to put forth a meaning of being wanted and friendship at activities toward classmates.

Memorable thoughts went through seniors minds as the closing of their last year approach them. The sophomore and junior years in high school were very interesting and adventurous. Through the sophomore breakfast, and the party many moments of fun and enjoyment will be remembered. In the junior year, the prom was the big event of the year. Senior year, was full of meaning, memories, and a touch of sorrow for the final step toward going out into the outside world.

Planning for the Senior Prom, Miss Little and Frankye Gemmer discuss the decoration arrangements for the gala evening.

honor group picks 90 seniors, 36 underclassmen

Graduates recall lasting memories, fond wishes,

After the victory over Snider, Harry Francis rides around on top of a Mustang showing the symbolic victory sign.

The Senior Supper is served in smorgasbord style so that each senior is free to choose from a variety of foods catering each persons' appetite.

The high school years full of memories sadly came to an end as reality faced each senior to the land of opportunity. Those little moments of having a crush on a basketball star to a first love were just part of all the wonderful times experienced in high school. By class participation, seniors united themselves through a magazine sale, Sophomore Party, Breakfast, Spirit week, Senior Supper, and Proms. The knowledge, experience, and friendships gained through school supplied seniors with the ability and strength to meet the responsibilities of the future.

The guests are entertained by the Troubadours who sing numbers including: "Aquarius," "Those Were the Days," and ending the program with "This Land is Your Land."

times never forgotten when leaving Alma Mater

These senior men safety check Kevin Achenbach's car before making their final plans for a spring vacation excursion to Florida during the week of spring vacation.

Seniors, Mike Wetzel and Susan Anderson work diligently for their last week of studying for North's finals and term papers.

Peeking over the shelves in the school library, one will find many strange visions. Among these are seniors studying for finals.

Coaches help underclassmen and seniors to form

While competing in the one-hundred yard high hurdles, underclassman Jim Bodnar exhibits his determination and perfect form.

Getting positioned for the pole vaulting event, junior Greg Mertz begins his upward swing at the Culver indoor meet. Culver topped the Redskin team by a single point.

balanced attack in all fields for victorious season

Track team members are: (Front row) T. Williams, L. Lamb, D. Gebhart, D. Hartup, G. Mertz, M. Stine, J. Bodnar, M. Kessler, J. Givens, B. Kinsey, D. Culver, D. Aumiller. (Second row) S. Lapp, A. Wermuth, R. Meek, M. Timmons, L. Longardner, B. Wilson, B. Loechner, B. Junk, S. Goshert, M. Hunter, R. Dornbush, M. Ballinger. (Third row) T. Smith, S. Rockey, J. Woodruff, M. Leach, B. Bridges, K. Burke, M. Marino, R. Hudson, S. Pulver, D. Heller, C. Bair. (Front row) S. Brady, S. Waikel, P. Morris, J. Henschen, E. Newhardt, L. Hinsch, M. Johnson, T. Zumbaugh, B. Cowan, B. Norton, J. Desmond. (Fifth row) K. Morey, M. Kipling, J. Lombard, J. Powell, P. Murphy, B. Anspach, D. Longley, J. Knuth, B. Junk, G. Parrish. (Last row) Dave Esterline, Duane Rowe, John Walters. Absent: Gary Spice.

Rising to position, DeWayne Hartup prepares to push off from the starting blocks at a Ball State indoor meet. As a junior, DeWayne also extends his talents to the cross-country team.

Head track coach Duane Rowe gained a new assistant coach Mr. David Esterline who ran track when he attended North Side. Mr. John Walters, returning assistant coach, also helped in coordinating and developing the track participants. Several strong underclassmen joined with seniors to make up a winning team. Each team member put much time and effort in their practices in order to improve their scores and compile a fine season.

Junior Deb Bowlin and senior Mike Jacoby admiringly look upon a 1970 'Boss' just one of many new Ford Motor Company products at Allen County Motors.

INDIANA AND MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY at 2101 Spy Run is a friend to everyone in the community. It sponsored numerous programs and activities for the youth of Fort Wayne as well as provided an essential public service. ALLEN COUNTY MOTORS, INC. located at 511 W. Main is "The Little Profit Dealer."

Senior Mike Birge and Linda Morken happily discuss the advantages of dealing with Indiana & Michigan Electric Company after a short visit in the offices.

Will Kline sits patiently while Mr. Paul Watters of Watters Studio adjusts the lighting in preparation for taking Will's senior pictures.

HEFNER CHEVROLET CITY, across from North Side wishes to congradulate the graduating class of 1970. WATTER STUDIO at 3121S. Calhoun gives "Photographs of Distinctions."

Seniors Greg Adams and Pam Mertz admire the new cars on display at Hefners Chevrolet. Here they are looking over a 1970 Monte Carlo.

I shall pass through this world but once. If, therefore, there be any kindness I can show, or any good thing I can do, let me do it now; let me not defer it or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again.

the Dome's Eternal Memories

Domeland's senior door awaits all graduating Redskins. Although its closing may mean—no more fire drills in December; note writing in English class; trips to Mr. Hinton's office; spirited pep sessions; powder-puff football games; PSAT, SAT, or Achievement tests; or tears for sectional finals—it can also mean the opening into a new future of college, jobs, or marriage. But the feelings and friendships of "our dear old North Side High" will always exist as "the Dome's Eternal Memories."

We, of the 1970 Legend staff, wish to thank Watters Studio and Jack Bundy of S.K. Smith Co., for their assistance and cooperation. We also wish to express our appreciation to Larry Glaze, of Paragon, for the sectional cakes, Christmas goodies, and yearbook guidance The staff would like to extend a special thank you to our adviser, Miss Thiele, who suffered through deadlines and proof with unfailing patience.
